Procedure:

1. Ask your students what they think a simile is. Explain them that a simile is the comparison between two unrelated nouns using “like” or “as”.
2. Give your students examples of similes. Explain to them what each simile means.
 - The chair is as strong as Superman.
 - She can swim like a fish.
 - Her hair was as soft as a spider web.
 - The children ran like ripples through water.
3. Ask your students to give you examples of similes. Then, ask your students to write at least 5 similes about spring.
4. Have your students write a short story about spring using the simile that they came up with. Ask them to create a Voki to tell their story.
5. Play their Voki in class and have students identify the simile used in the story.
